Dearest Sweetheart,

I figured that while I have plenty of time I'll write you an extra letter for a few reasons.

First, is to find out how much longer a regular letter takes than a U mail letter. When you receive this letter, inform me.

Second, I can write in fully detail than what I can write in a limited U mail envelope.

Third and probably the most important reason is because I want to write you of how much I love you.

Today my mind was concentrated on one thing and that was you dearest, maybe it's because last night I was talking about you all evening. I wrote you in my U mail letter earlier in the day of my conversation with the lad next sleeping next to me.

He was talking about his wife and how they meet, what they did, and there petty arguments before marriage. I used the same topic, ~~only he married~~

Darling I feel very lonely for you at present. It's been some time since I've last received a letter from you and it probable will take a little while longer before I receive my first overseas letter from you.

I keep thinking of the nice times we had when I was home recently and how nice it's going to be to do all those things again. I hope it won't be to long before that happens.

When I return I'm not only going to look forward to the good times we spent together but also to something that is a serious step in both our lives.

There isn't the slightest doubt in my mind that you dear is the one I deeply love and look forward to the day of marrying you.

By this time I feel that I don't have to ask you if you love me. Don't want to get yelled at again with you starting, Mr. Segans if you don't no by now, I hope that you haven't, or change, your mind later in the future.

Beloved figuring I return home in the same condition as I left you I want to get married as soon as possible. You will have plenty of time to think it over cause it probably won't be for some time before I return to the States.

To be honest frank with you dear but for some reason I feel just as if you are my wife
