My Dearest Babes and Judy

Today is the day when you are supposed to receive a package from a florist containing a orchid corsage. Hope you received it and was a nice flower. The weather here was far off from being a lovely day as it's been raining most of the day.

When to take a hot shower today and while showering I noticed that the Italian seagulls must have taken out from their storage place their best cloths for today's holiday. As described to you previously the people from the farms were in rags but I found out that they're saving their best cloths, which is a hard equal to our clothing until they finish of the war.

Didn't receive any mail from you today dear but I'll be hoping for something tomorrow.

Speaking of tomorrow there is going to be another show presented here this time it's a V.S.C. show therefore it probably will be good.

You can forget about that job job I wrote to you about because they got a regular driver to take the job any way don't I believe that I'll be able to drive instead return of this a stop short practice.

Did you ever received a box of candy from me? You should have and a long time ago as I instructed the package to be delivered as soon as possible. Happy Easter, darling I love you so much.
