Hello Darest,

Here I am back once more writing to you from the Red Cross building located at the West center.

As I predicted yesterday afternoon my time was occupied with getting straightened out, as to buy new clothing and then a good hot shower. In the evening there was a movie, a play named Joe.

Today my eye spotted a item that you wrote me about requesting. Since it was so expensive and it seems to have been the best type. I bought them and I do hope you like them. I think that the color will go well with your light color tan coat during the fall.

The A.M.S. have nearly gotten up to the much onto who are embezzling the Allied Troops. A number of stores have signs in the windows stating they are off limits due to stress in the price of their merchandise. This act has hampered the price for us boys.

I wish I could be spending this with you darling, so it would be like old times, but mine must be just a wishful thinking. Love you honey.

Ben
