My Beloved Darling,

Received your welcomed air mail letter today dated Oct 2nd.

All of the 0 mail letters that I've received from you dear have been photographed.

I'm well aware that you have written me more letters than I've written you. I know and doubt if you honestly think that the difference in number of letters that you have written and thus far received, of the letter I'm answering of yours today, is really all on the way to you. It's a difference of 68 letters a fair portion of the letters are somewhere as I may not be able to obtain permission due to the situation here. I'll let you know tomorrow what develops. Possible I'll be more busy than usually have been but it won't be  $\pm$  so much where I won't be able to write you. How you understand why I have my doubts for tomorrow.

Not going to the movie today as I'm on duty now, which is the afternoon.

No longer any doubts about tomorrow as it's going to occur <sup>today</sup> but possible I'll be able to keep 2 tomorrow date.

I love you, my love and always hope and wish I could be with you permanently.

Yours forever,
Ben

with every new month, you had a different job?

A letter from my sister today relating to me about the forthcoming bankings plus something you omitted in your letter telling me about how often you told George your name. My sister writes that Georgie was calling you Aunt Judy. Is that right? He certainly is learning ahead of time. Friends reply to your statement of Georgie calling you Aunt Judy, and you feeling old, as if you are already a aunt when the time does come I hope you don't feel the same because you still ~~be~~ will be young and attractive as you are now.

Have my doubts if I'll be able to keep the appointment with Robert's family for dinner tomorrow between you and me, but not all as you know I've been <sup>2</sup> a day when I haven't written. That should answer your doubt, as you have not one but three question marks after your paragraph of informing me of the mail situation. Do you want me to remedy the situation by writing you twice daily now that I have ample time? Honey I greatly appreciate that you have been able to write me every single day with only one or two exceptions.

I delighted that you have a assistant to help you with the office work so you won't have to work so hard. Your interest, and interesting job is an advantage, in that you make the work easier for yourself. This present job is the longest position that you held? Isn't that correct. Remember when almost
