My Beloved Judy,

Monday
Jan 8, 1945

Another evening darling and I'm certainly <sup>glad</sup> that not only does it give me a few minutes to think you but also a few hours of relaxation after a hectic day.

I went to the early show this evening which is at 6. I had to see Errol Flynn in "Mountain Glory" I'd rate it as one of the better pictures I've seen while here thus far.

By the fighting picture as it has been appearing during the past few days the situation hasn't look so rosy but I imagine the High Command figured that there would be a few reverses and what's occurring now seems to be one of them. While at present the news is a morale breaker, I believe the tide will change shortly.

lot of remarks against that Congress man who having unjusting troops overseas, reported to the people back home that our boys don't want to return home until the job is done well. I know if I had the opportunity to go home tomorrow I'd hate to see change, and all the fellows over here feel the same way.
