Hello My Darling

Wednes Day
Jan 10, 1945

Today was just another training day in which I'm unable to write to you in detail about.

But my PX rations this evening and while writing this letter I'm enjoying on my one loaf of allotted beer coming from the states. Any change coming from the states seems to top every thing that can be offered by any of the foreign countries.

Tonight I intend going to sleep early rather than go over to the snack bar or movie theatre. I'm now getting up earlier in the morning than I use to in the past.

There wasn't any mail for me today but the mail is beginning to come in, loads of it therefore I'll be hoping for at least one tomorrow.

I have a slight cough at present but really nothing to worry about as I always seem to obtain one around this time of the year.

Good night darling I'm always thinking of you and hoping it worth the long I love you.
