AMERICAN RED CROSS

Saturday
Jan 6, 1945

My Dearly Beloved Judy,
Well here is it another Saturday evening and I find my self again at the A.R.C. writing room. The movie theatre is just adjacent to this room and I intend going to the 8 o'clock show. Tonight's picture is "Going My Way" with Bing Crosby. It should be a good picture.

Tomorrow being Sunday I don't know yet, if we will have the day off, or train during the day.

Considering the meals here aren't bad. Instead of fried eggs like I had at the battery we get hard boiled eggs. For the number of men that have to be fed, it would require all day, to prepare fried eggs for them.

A new bulletin has appeared whereby we could use my new address or continue to use my old address. We were told that by using our old address our mail would arrive quicker. Since I won't be here long, it's better for you to continue to use my old address and then when I am assigned to my new outfit, it will come direct by there, instead of stopping off here where it would be delayed for a few days.

I haven't informed mom of my recent change and I intend waiting until I arrive at my new outfit. Possible she knows about it by now anyway.

Darling, while the situation doesn't look so close in sight, I hope it won't be too many more Saturdays that I ~~have to~~ write you. Rather I would like to tell you, seeing you close to me, how much I sincerely love you and miss every minute that I'm separated from you sweetheart.

Good night darling, pleasant dreams, and remember you are always in my heart!

Forever yours,
Ben

My Beloved Judy
When to the hospital today
for my final examination on my eyes before being issued a new pair of glasses. Now I'll have to wait about a week before
I receive them.

Just came from the theatre
where I saw the motion picture
"In the Meantime Darling" which was a good picture. Following the movie there was a ~~small~~ orchestra playing popular music.
It appears as if the orchestra plays every Tuesday and Friday evenings. Had show at 5 o'clock therefore I was able to attend the early show which starts at 6 o'clock.
