My Beloved Judy,

Tuesday
Feb 13, 1945

Another welcomed mail letter arrived today clear dated Jan 5th.

I have Sam's address but even though he must not be too far away from where I am it's impossible for me to locate him, as I can't go touring the country side looking for him.

It's news to me that the income tax has been increased. That is a large chunk off your pay every week, four dollars and forty cents.

Still taking it easy dearest even though I'm now in a different place ^{from what} that I last wrote you. By sleeping on a bed that didn't have any mattress therefore I fixed a mattress out of hay which is almost as comfortable.

That's about all the news for today I'm okay but miss you tremendously dearest, all my love kisses
