My Beloved Sweetheart,

Received two lovely letters from you today and I had hoped that one of them would have mentioned that you finally received a letter from me. No such luck. I feel that you will receive all the letters in one big batch that are accumulating at a postal depot.

Your letters were dated August 30th and Sept 1st. I guess something has happened but where the bottleneck in the mail service is, I don't know. Its a game of who got the letters.

Unfortunately its my turn for guard again this evening and I'll be missing a picture that I was anxious to see, "Bedroom Manner" which should be a worthwhile picture in seeing.

Today I also received the comfortable slippers from Mom. The slippers are much nicer than the moccasins that I had in mind. In fact I was thinking of saving them until I returned home and continue to wear the cloth slippers that I have, but then I realize that the slippers will be plentiful on the market and I should be able to buy a pair.

~~As another Saturday is drawing to a close darling~~

As another Saturday is being eliminated darling, it means just one less important evening for us ^{and} for me to sweat out before we are united. It also brings closer the first Saturday that we will enjoy together. Just counted, that there are just fifteen more Saturday before Christmas and I'm consistently hoping that one of those will find us together.

And until that eventful day dearest, I continue to miss you constantly, and love you with all my heart, now and forevermore.

Ben xxxxx*
