My beloved Judy

Wednesday
Sept 26th 1945

I now refused a pass to Paris because of the long in weather. Its only a one day pass and most of the time is spent traveling to and from Paris to the camp. It takes over three hours traveling <sup>each way</sup> and during these cold days, the riding would be very unpleasant.

We finally were issued another blanket to help keep us warm during the cool nights, plus a overcoat which we really don't need at present but the day probably isn't far off when I'll be thankful that I have it.

The mail as yet has been forwarded from my former company but there is a possibility that before long I'll receive a few letters from you darling. I'll bet that you never realized when you wrote me, <sup>your</sup> last letter, you always mentioned that you would be glad when you didn't have to write. I'm glad also and I probably won't have to be writing you many more letters. This is giving me a day to catch up on <sup>the riding and other letters</sup> the riding and other letters you have in complete address at top
