Hello My Darling

The way it appears now, we are due to remain here for quite awhile as today each tent was given a needed stone that about means that we are now winterized. There was talk of us going to another assembly area camp, but I imagine that the other camps are filled to capacity therefore we will remain here until time to ship to a staging area. Once in a staging area we have to wait from three to ten days, therefore you can just about figure, I will be home around Christmas time, at least that's the way it's beginning to add up.

Oh, how I wish that I would receive a few letters from you though I realize that I won't. Perhaps the days could go by quicker and there would be something to look forward to each succeeding day. As it is, every day we hope that tomorrow will be the day that we ship out and report to a staging area. It creates irritation, unless I think that I send you a cablegram relating that we expected to board ship around 0.8.54. I don't know if we are still here. I love you and think of you with all my heart.
