

Put Ben Segal
Co D - Blk 6
1229 R.C.
Fort Dix
N.J.

FREE

Miss Judith Beroman
817 West End Avenue
New York, N.Y.

#7

Service Club

U. S. ARMY

May 11, 1943

Dearest Judith

I'm writing this letter early in the day because I have soon news for you. I've noticed my name on the shipping list for tomorrow. That means that I'll be on my way to my new camp tomorrow.

As to where I'm going I haven't the slightest idea. It might be Atlantic City and then it might end up in the far west.

Don't write me any more letters until I write you my new address. I will keep you informed every day, if I am permitted to write on a troop train, as to my location. The shipping list is small which may mean that I'll be in a good outfit.

I haven't forgotten about the photograph. At the first chance I get I'll make it.

Last night Ben and I went to the movies. We saw "Redhead from Manhattan"

Just received my mail for today. I can't understand it. Today I got your first letter that is postmarked May 7. Yesterday I received your letter that you mailed the day before. They must have a crazy system here.

Tomorrow I'll write you a long letter as I will have plenty of time on the train. Don't worry if you don't hear from me in a few days.

xxxxx Loves Kisses Ben